Singing as Prayer. While some make a strong demarcation between singing and prayer, the Bible repeatedly presents the unity of song and prayer (e.g. the entire book of Psalms). Therefore, to engage in congregational singing may be to engage in prayer. Sung prayers often range across a spectrum which includes praise, petition, thanksgiving, intercession, confession, recitation of Scripture, and more. In some Christian traditions, to highlight the fact that singing is prayer, a congregational song closes with a standard cadence, singing "Amen." All this to remind us that when we sing together, we pray together!
